

It is Illustrated BY Phoenix morgany & Bucklow 23

written BY Phoenix morgon

Harry Potter and the magical McDonalds Delivery.

Harry woke up. He was too excited for the next year of Hogwarts, and he just couldn't sleep. All Harry could think about was the train to Hogwarts and buying a MacDonalds in case he got hungry. So he got up. He crept into Uncle Vernon's bedroom and quiet as a nit, he stole Uncle Vernon's phone. He ran as quick as lightening, back to his bedroom, and packed the phone into his suitcase, along with his clothes.

Harry potter got his broomstick and went to the back garden, then, holding his suitcase in one hand and balancing on his broom, he flew away from his house at half past 2 in the morning.

He flew, gently all the way to Broomstick Accessories, a brand-new shop in Diagon Alley.

"Hullo!" said Hagrid. Hagrid was now working at Broomstick Accessories to save up money for a new a raincoat which cost £1500! He had almost got there but he still needed £100 more.

"Hey Hagrid, can I buy that suitcase holder for my Broomstick?" Asked Harry. Luckily the broomstick holder cost £100. Harry traded £100 for the broomstick holder, and Hagrid said:

"Thankyou Harry! Thankyou! Now I can buy the raincoat I've been wanting for Ages! I lost my old one and it never had a hood anyway."

The brand-new raincoat had a tracking device, so if Hagrid lost his coat again, he could just find it easily. When Hagrid put on his new coat, he almost jumped up and down with excitement, but decided not to, because he would break the floor of his new shop- oof!

//

Harry put the suitcase holder on his broomstick and flew to the train station, waving "Bye Hagrid!". When he got to Kings Cross Train Station, he took out Uncle Vernon's phone, and ordered 20 chicken nuggets, a large fries and some Fanta from McDonalds.

The train was arriving in 15 minutes, so he had time to get his food. When the McDonalds arrived, it was cold. Harry used a heating spell that Fawkes the Phoenix had taught him. Instantly his food was hot again. Harry realized then that the train had arrived and was about to leave!

Quickly, harry ran to the train in a bolt of lightning. He ran through the barrier at platform 9&3/4, jumped on the train and sat down next to Ron just as the train left the station. Finally, he'd made it on the way to Hogwarts. He shared his chicken nuggets with Ron and Hermione as they relaxed on the train.

As they got to Hogwarts Harry, Hermione and Ron stepped into the castle and saw Hagrid. But Voldemort was waiting inside.

Harry used Uncle Vernon's phone to play relaxing music, and Voldemort instantly fell asleep. Hagrid wrapped sleepy Voldemort up in his new coat, he looked just like a chicken nugget. Then Hagrid fed Voldemort to a mutant dragon – OOF!
"Spose I'll have to buy another coat then " Said Hagrid, but all was well.

Handwritten text, possibly a signature or scribble, appearing as faint, illegible characters.