

The truth of a blood moon

By Nora Watkinson

October 2023

Chapter 1. The moon

It was a school day, and I was ready. "I'm ready for school mum", I said. We immediately got in the car. I looked out the window and saw the blood moon, and I shivered in my chair. "Are you ok Nora" said my mum. "Yep, all good", I said sarcastically. It looked like it was getting bigger and bigger.

I ran into school, paranoid. When I told everyone, they didn't seem to care like they were brainwashed, but only two of my friends seemed to notice Isaac and Anna. "I don't care," said Isaac. But how do you not care?!

Anna just believed me, to be honest it was kind of creepy, but I was happy she was normal. But Isaac he just didn't seem to care! But I was happy one of my friends listened to me.

Now the moon was like a small leaf in the sky. It looked like there was something darker in the middle of the red circle. It was weird then I realised that's not a m-moon it's an eye Right then and there I thought I was going to faint my friends had no idea! But it still got bigger. Like it was coming closer and closer

Chapter 2. Hallucinations

I ran into reception there was red sparkles all around my vision I looked at the eye, for a split second it shifted up down and all around, then the tree turned red, eventually the hallucinations stopped, and my heart stopped beating fast. But I kept wondering to myself what's going to happen? Is the world going to end? I didn't know what to do. The thoughts kept building in my head. Suddenly, my life flashed before my eyes. The moon got gigantic I ran to my friends and dragged them outside at break time. They looked at me, so I turned their heads to the moon wait a min it's day time the moon is still out I said. Now the moon was going down not bigger straight down. I stared at the eye looking down on me, slowly there was a crust that covered the eye "WHAT IS THAT!" shouted Isaac. Anna took a few steps back. I stared at it, not moving. The other kids' screams faded out, and my ears started ringing I was just focusing on the eye.

Chapter 3. The truth

I ran home (which took about 2 hours) my friends followed. I read and read until I stopped, I ran to my brother's ant farm looked at my two friends and said, we have ants we are the ants to another creature! SUDDENLY the ground started shaking, we tried to hug each other to stay in one group, "what's going on!" said Isaac, I don't know! I said AHHH! Hang on! said Anna, after about a week of random shaking it finally stopped, I looked outside the eye slowly closed in front of me that's when it hit me, it died.